

How early does the final configuration ranking become predictable?

